

DEVELOPMENTAL SERVICES WORKER (DSWP)

Make a difference to those who live with disabilities

Embark on a rewarding career and make a difference in the lives of children and adults who live with physical, developmental, and intellectual disabilities or dual diagnoses by learning how to support their emotional, mental, physical, and social needs.

You'll gain a solid foundation of the stages of human development and the community supports available to those living with a disability. You'll learn alternate modes of communication, including sign language and a picture exchange communication system. Using a person-centred approach and positive reinforcement to build relationships, you'll help individuals with disabilities and their families live safe, respectful lives of quality and inclusion.

Program highlights

- Choose to take this program on campus or online
- Community expert guest speakers
- Field placement opportunities in all four semesters with the potential of completing placement during paid employment
- Fast-track option if you have previous experience in the developmental services or education sector

Flexibility

We understand that every student's learning journey is unique. Cambrian's DSW program offers flexible learning options. Students can register for on-campus in-person classes or complete classes fully online. Our engaging on-campus learning activities are ideal for those who prefer in-person and hands-on learning experiences. Students who prefer to complete their program online will be engaged in interactive self-navigating content using Cambrian's Learning Management System and will have the option to connect directly with professors virtually for content delivery and questions. Online students will also be able to complete course presentations, evaluations, tests, assignments, and projects using Cambrian's Learning Management System. Field placements can be coordinated in the student's home community.
